To be more innovative & promising Crypto in the coin market. To rank as the most preferred digital currency and investment asset.

INTRODUCTION TO CRYPTO

Crypto currencies or virtual assets are digital means of exchange which uses the Cryptography and block chain technology for security. The word 'Crypto' derived from the Greek word 'Kryptos' which means hidden or private. Crypto currencies or tokens are digitally mined or created with a set of algorithms, exchanged and regulated by its users.

Block chain is a secure record of every transaction using a Crypto. This technology would transform the way, ledger is maintained. Information in a block chain is divided into sealed blocks. Block chains are secure and transparent.

No government or regulatory bodies control the Crypto. It is a decentralized currency.

Crypto is promising.

Smart way, Smart choice and Smart technology which is verified and validated.

INTRODUCTION TO BLOCK CHAIN

Block chain is a shared database technology that differs from other database on how it stores data information. Block chains always stores data in Cryptography and saved in blocks that are then linked together.

Every new data is entered into a fresh block and is chained into the previous block.

Any type of information can be stored on a block chain platform.

The technology is decentralized and no individual person has control on it. Maintained and controlled by community.

The entries made in the data base once created are not reversible, thus cannot be removed or modified. For every new transaction entered, a subsequent block is created and linked to previous block.

Block chain data is spread out among several network nodes at different locations. If any person tries to alter a data the other nodes does not alter the data.

Transparent

The decentralized system allows to be viewed transparently. You may view data individually or through any block chain platform. Each node updates its own data and creates a fresh block. All transaction is encrypted; users are always anonymous. The transaction is transparent.

Features

Block chain is one of the main enabling technologies that can assist establish sustainable and secure solutions in order to accomplish these as it can enable accountability, transparency, and increase operational efficiency in global partnerships.

TRON

Tron's official Crypto currency is Tronix (TRX).
Launched in the year 2017 it is the future of digital world.

Designed & created to give complete freedom and ownership over the content.

A decentralized distribution platform, complete freedom to freely store transact distribute and store data.

Tron is a technology and platform that is based on the block chain, the decentralized database system that serves as a backend for Crypto currencies. Tron is currently considered one of the biggest platforms that run on block chain technology. Tron was developed with the idea of reducing the need for centralized platforms as a way to transact online.

Tron is developed to provide a decentralized system that focuses primarily on content delivery. There are two main priorities in the Tron network. The Tron block chain focuses on the use of smart contracts. Tron can be used for the development of decentralized exchange, lending platforms, online gaming, movie streaming, and much more. There are also more advanced features that developers can use in order to develop. Apps and initiate smart contracts with Tron.
